GIRL SKATE CO & STEVE SAIZ

Yup, that's a 540.

Gardena Banks, 1989. Photo Spike.

Yup. That's Dave Chappelle with a Featherboard, 2024.

Steve Saiz and his brother Marco were rippers from Long Beach, California, just minutes from the Torrance the HQ of Homeboy magazine. So it was natural they both became early skate subjects of Spike, who, at the time, was chief photographer and co-creator of the magazine. They shot on several occasions and a natural connection was made. Young Steve had also caught the eye of Stacey Peralta in 1986 and secured himself a spot on the legendary Bones Brigade. He eventually turned pro for the brand and was awarded with an iconic Powell pro model. The art featured feathers, as a nod to his Native Comanche heritage. The feather has become a reoccurring theme for Steve throughout his creative life. In 2015 came the first dimensional version of the icon - he carved his first feather out of an old deck. Turned out a skateboard was a perfect canvas and beautiful mix of his life-long love of skateboarding and his Native Comanche roots. I'm stoked to have befriended Steve and seen his work in several art exhibitions. The Featherboards are truly amazing to behold. Over the last year I finagled Mr. Saiz into making a collection with Girl. He is awesome to work with and we're proud to present his work in the Spring 2025 line. Big thanks, Steve! For your hard work and boundless enthusiasm. Truly inspiring. - Andy Jenkins

The Spirit of New Orleans

CELEBRATING CULTURE & COLLABORATION THROUGH SKATING

Growing up in New Orleans, I was surrounded by a rich history of culture and music. As a Mardi Gras Indian, I understood that this tradition was rich and powerful. When wearing a beautiful suit it comes with leadership, respect, and embodying the spirit of our people.

In 2013, when I first completed my suit, I felt something indescribable. I had spent countless hours handcrafting every detail, pouring my heart into every stitch. But it wasn't just about the suit itself! It was about the moment I stepped outside and saw my whole neighborhood waiting for me. The pride and joy on their faces as they celebrated my work was a feeling I'll never forget. It was the moment I realized that I wanted to share this beautiful art with others.

Years later, I found myself picking up a skateboard and cruising through the streets of New Orleans late at night. The sounds of jazz filled the air, and I stumbled upon a second-line band parading through the streets, after a wedding. The city was alive, full of energy and spirit. In that moment, I knew I had to find a way to bring these two passions together: my love for Mardi Gras culture and the joy I find in skating.

That's when the idea for this capsule was born. I wanted to create something that celebrated New Orleans its history, and its people. The board represents the connection between my childhood culture, the pride of being a Mardi Gras Indian, and the freedom I find in skating down the same streets where my community celebrates. It's a tribute to the beauty! The way we come together as a city to dance, to sing, and to lift each other's spirits, no matter what life brings.

Skateboarding through the streets of New Orleans is more than just a hobby for me. It's a way to connect with my heritage and my community in a new, exciting way. Whether it's cruising through the French Quarter or catching a glimpse of a jazz band, New Orleans is so special. The board I created is a representation of that—a symbol of pride, tradition, and the unbreakable spirit of our city. So, when you ride this board, know that you're carrying a piece of New Orleans with you. You are a part of a tradition that celebrates life, music, culture, and community.
